Celebrate Black History Month with the Portsmouth Public Library African American Contributions to American Culture

Wednesday, February 8, 7 pm, Sandra Clarke, founder of the Jukwaa Theatre Company, will perform her new one woman work based upon the lives of the Delaney Sisters. This event is co-sponsored by the library and the Seacoast African American Cultural Center (SAACC).

Wednesday, February 15, 7 pm, Prize-winning author Jeffrey Bolster will present the story of Black Jacks, African-American seamen in the age of sail — exploring the rise and fall of black seafaring and the critical role these sailors played in helping forge new identities for black people in America. This event is made possible through UNH Speakers Bureau.
